Federal indictments add Rippetoe as co-conspirator

By NAN PATTON EHRLIGHT
Developer Robert Rippetoe said Friday after being named a defendant in a federal grand jury indictment, "It's a sad day in this world when the government of the U.S. will ruin people's lives with such little and insignificant evidence as they have, and charge people with such serious crimes with so little evidence."

"I'm just astonished that our government will do that," said Rippetoe who is currently serving a sentence at the Hancock County Jail in Bay St. Louis. Rippetoe, formerly of Pass Christian and now of Gulfport, was one of 11 defendants named in the indictment released Wednesday in Biloxi.

Accusations outlined in the indictment include capital murder, conspiracy to commit capital murder, extortion and drug smuggling.

The indictment alleges that Harrison County Sheriff Howard L. Hobbs and Rippetoe met with and solicited an unindicted co-conspirator to murder the Chief of Police of Gulfport, referring to former chief Larkin Smith.

Law enforcement sources say the unnamed co-conspirator is Rickie A. Prewitt, convicted in January for the 1980 murder-for-hire of a Mobile woman.

Prewitt is presently serving a life sentence for that killing.

Hobbs and nine of the others named in Wednesday's indictment were arrested in June for conspiracy to import cocaine.

The new indictment supersedes an earlier one and names Rippetoe as a defendant.

Others named in the indictments are Harrison County Chief Deputy Sheriff Craig Monroe, D.J. Venus III, D.J. Venus IV, George Mims Venus, Jim Blackwell, Phillip Baugh, Wayne Ford, Bill Carroll and John Higgins.

Overt acts listed in the indictment state that "In approximately January 1982, defendants Hobbs and Rippetoe met with and solicited an unindicted co-conspirator to murder a person."

The same month, "Hobbs and Rippetoe met with and solicited an unindicted co-conspirator to murder the Chief of Police of Gulfport."

"In approximately February 1982, defendants Hobbs and Rippetoe met with and solicited an unindicted co-conspirator to rob and possibly murder a person."

Rippetoe has about three months left to serve of a six-month sentence imposed when he was found guilty in 1981 of falsifying a bill for work his firm, Bay Contractors, Inc., performed for the Hancock County School District.

The suit rose from a contract for repair work at Gulfview Elementary School after it was damaged by a tornado in 1980.

Rippetoe was sentenced to one year in the county jail with six months suspended if he worked on public projects, paid a fine of $14,520 and $4,480 in restitution to the school district.

"The school board still owes me $5,000," Rippetoe said Friday. Commenting on the grand jury indictment, "I think it's totally ridiculous," he said.

"If it hadn't happened to me, I would not have believed it."

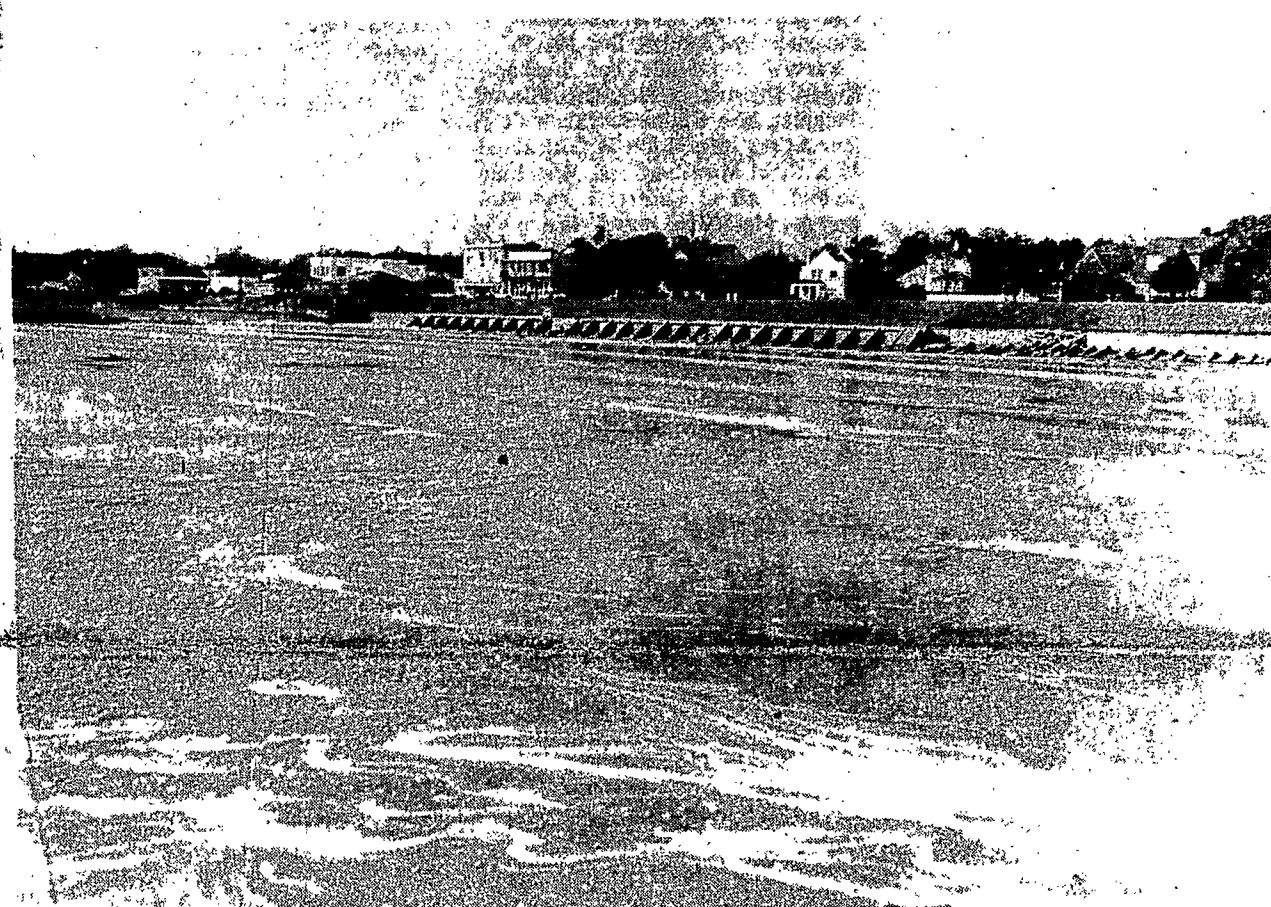

Asked to comment about two arson attempts on his Pass Christian home, Rippetoe said they stemmed from "bad business dealings."

"Some guys from Oklahoma didn't want me to testify before a grand jury," he said.

"And I never could get anyone to show me how to present it to the grand jury."

Trial on the federal grand jury charges, set for Jan. 9 on the earlier indictment, has been changed to April 9 in Biloxi to allow defendants time to prepare.

Also, violations of Mississippi law described in the indictment may be presented to Harrison County grand juries meeting in February and March, according to Smith who will replace Hobbs as Harrison County sheriff this week.

SOLID ICE ON THE SOUND—Sea Coast Echo reporter-photographer Nan Ehrbright, an as-yet unreconstructed Yankee, was the only soul (brave-foolish) enough to venture out onto the Uman Avenue pier where she captured this unique view of solid ice on the shores of the Mississippi Sound looking back at downtown Bay St. Louis. Prognosticators are offering the encouraging hope of a warming trend beginning today and an end to the current week-long seige of sub-freezing temperatures here.

Duck hunters recall night lost in icy La. marshes

By NAN PATTON EHRLIGHT
Four area youth are bouncing back from a frightening overnight experience in the icy Louisiana marsh last week during which they report they all expected to die.

Three of the youth are awaiting total return of feeling to frozen fingers and feet.

News Brief

SWEARING-IN CEREMONIES

Circuit Judge J. Ruble Griffin will preside Tuesday at swearing-in ceremonies for some 18 elected officials in the Hancock County Courthouse at 9 a.m.

Among those to be sworn are the officials elected to the positions of sheriff, superintendent of education, supervisor in five districts, chancery clerk, circuit clerk, tax collector-assessor, two justice court judges and five constables.

At 10 a.m. Monday, Jan. 2 the new Mississippi Highway Commission, including Commissioner Bob McEwen of the Southern District will take the oath of office in Room 1033, Woodland State Office Building, Jackson.

Statewide court officers, Bay No. 10, will be sworn in at the same time.

Other officials to be sworn in are Sam W. Waggoner and Zack Stewart.

The fourth left for a skiing trip the day after their ordeal.

Their families celebrated Christmas belatedly but joyfully after the youths returned from an unexpectedly extended hunting trip.

David Melver of Waveland, David Feranch Jr. of Bay St. Louis, Richard Farragut of Pass Christian and Kris Swartzendruber of Diamondhead went duck hunting about 2 p.m. Friday, Dec. 23.

A series of potentially-tragic mishaps resulted in their spending the night outdoors on Long Point near the mouth of Pearl River in Louisiana while temperatures dipped into the low 20's with strong northerly winds.

The high-school-aged young men were dressed in jackets, pants and a couple of undershirts.

They had no watches, no food, no water, no knives, no equipment to help them cope with the cold.

"After we got wet," Farragut said, "our clothes were all stiff as boards." They were rescued by a U.S. Coast Guard helicopter late the next morning after an all-night search.

Milver and his friends were coming back from the marsh about 10 p.m. with their two boats when the sea hit a mild squall.

"We were in the marsh and the wind was blowing from the north," Melver said.

"All of a sudden a big wave coming over the front, and in about two seconds we were sunk."

When the boat capsized, the boys found themselves chest-deep in cold water.

As they started wading toward shore, they saw a tugboat.

"First Richard shot his gun to signal, then David shot," Milver said.

But there was mud in the barrel of Feranch's gun, and when he fired he received a fractured nose and cut eye and lip.

"Rich and I grabbed David and put him in the boat and walked the boats to the shoreline," Milver reported.

Then Milver took the smaller boat

BaySide cyclist injured in crash

A 37-year-old BaySide Park man was treated for facial lacerations and knee and shoulder injuries Saturday, Dec. 24 and released from Hancock General Hospital following a motorcycle-car crash in Waveland.

Waveland police reported Allen Joseph Maddox was transported to the hospital by Mobile Medic following the 4:50 a.m. collision on US-90 near Ray and Patty's Lounge.

Officer Mike Pearson said Maddox, who was driving a three-wheeled motorcycle west on US-90, was struck by a pickup truck driven by Jodie Cortez, 20, of Avondale, La.

Pearson reported Cortez pulled out of the lounge parking lot onto the highway when she hit the motorcycle.

Pearson said Cortez failed to yield right-of-way.

Cortez and her passenger, Gary Mitchell, 39, of Rt. 7, Box 348, Bay St. Louis, were both uninjured in the incident, the officer reported.

World's Fair sanctions cajun-creole cookbooks

Gumbo and jambalaya may be 'New Orleans' day-to-day Creole fare, but on New Year's Day it's strictly Deep South with cabbages, black-eyed peas and cornbread.

These hearty dishes have traditionally ushered in the New Year, as symbols of prosperity and good luck. Some say you'll get a dollar for every cabbage leaf you eat; others say just a bite will do the trick.

Black-eyed peas, which are actually beans, are still a staple in their native Africa where they're called cowpeas. The slaves of pre-Civil War Alabama began the tradition of serving them as holiday fare.

There's a long-standing controversy about whether it's necessary to eat both cabbage and black-eyed peas or if just one is sufficient to assure a good year. Everyone does agree, however, that to celebrate New Year's Day without either of these dishes is to tempt fate itself.

Recipes for these and many other classic and contemporary Creole, Cajun, and Louisiana dishes can be found on the pages of the two official World's Fair cookbooks: the Junior League of New Orleans' 'Jambalaya,' and the Rapides Symphony Guild of Alexandria's 'Louisiana Entertainers.'

CABBAGE ROLLS

2 or 3 cabbages
1 pound ground chuck
1 egg
2 tablespoons long grain rice
1 onion, chopped
1 slice stale bread, soaked in water and squeezed dry
1 teaspoon salt
½ pound brisket, sliced
3 tablespoons brown sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
½ cup raisins
1 8-ounce package dried mixed fruit
1 10½-ounce can tomato soup
1 cup sour cream

Core cabbages and immerse in boiling water until leaves are tender and separate easily but are not cooked, about 5 minutes. It may be necessary to cut away part of the spine if it is too thick and hard.

Mix together ground meat, egg, rice, onion, bread and 1 teaspoon salt. Place about 1 tablespoon of this mixture on each cabbage leaf. Fold (or roll) and tuck in ends, securing with a toothpick if necessary.

In a large heavy pot which can be used both on top of the stove and in the oven, place the brisket slices. Stack cabbage rolls on top. Cover pot tightly and cook very slowly for 30 minutes.

Add remaining ingredients, except sour cream, recover and cook very slowly for 2 hours. It may be necessary to add a little water. At this point the whole pot may be refrigerated overnight to allow the flavors to marry.

Bake uncovered 1 hour at 300 degrees. Serve accompanied by sour cream.

PICKLED

BLACK-EYED PEAS
5 15-ounce cans black-eyed peas, drained
3 2½-ounce cans pitted black-olives, drained and sliced

2½ cups sliced red onions

2 cloves garlic, pressed

2 cups salad oil

¾ cup red wine vinegar

1 tablespoon minced parsley

1/8 teaspoon Tabasco

Salt and pepper to taste

Combine the peas, olives, onions and garlic. Mix all other ingredients and pour over vegetable mixture.

Refrigerate, covered, for at least 24 hours.

ONION RYE BREAD

1 cup milk
1 tablespoon sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons molasses
1 package dry yeast
¾ cup warm water
½ cup finely chopped onion
1 tablespoon caraway seeds
2 cups rye flour
2 cups rye flour
cornmeal
salt

In a saucepan, scald milk, stir in sugar, salt, butter, and molasses. Cool 20 to 30 minutes. Dissolve yeast in water. In a large bowl, combine milk mixture, yeast, water, onion, and caraway seeds. Stir in flours. Turn out on floured board to knead when it becomes too difficult to stir. (Use rye flour to flour board.) Knead to incorporate flour, 5 to 10 minutes.

Place in a greased bowl, cover, and let rise in a warm place until doubled, 1½ hours. Turn out on floured board (use rye flour) and knead 3 to 5 minutes. Return to greased bowl, cover, let rise again until doubled, 1 hour.

Remove from bowl; shape into loaf. Place in a 9 x 5 x 3 loaf pan which has been greased and dusted with corn meal. Brush top of loaf with cream and sprinkle with salt.

Let rise a third time, almost to top of pan, about 45 minutes. Preheat oven to 400 degrees and bake 40 minutes. Cool on wire rack. This recipe doubles easily.

and tried to follow the tug, but the boat ran out of gas.

McIver, who floated about six miles away from the other three, said he finally pulled the boat up to shore and tried to sleep behind the boat.

"But I didn't sleep," he said. "I thought about whether we were going to die—whether anyone was looking for us. I said a lot of prayers."

"And every time water splashed against the bank it froze and hit the boat in little balls of ice."

A number of people were looking for the young men.

When they had not returned by 9:30 p.m., McIver's mother called Robert Boudin at Civil Defense.

The sheriff's department was also notified.

"Everyone was no nice," Mrs. McIver said. "A good friend stayed all night with me."

"A lot of the boys' friends were out looking for them," she said.

"And I was on the phone all night with Mrs. Peranich and Mrs. Swartzendruber."

"Finally about 4:30 a.m. I couldn't take it any longer and went down to LaFrance's and saw the planes go out."

The two trucks used by the hunters had been located earlier near LaFrance's Fishing Camp at Ansley.

"I kept hoping and wishing they would find something," Mrs. McIver continued.

"Then we got reports they'd found four boys on the beach. I went to Bayou Cadet to take a boat out, but before I left we found out it wasn't them."

Among the searchers were Gary Griffin, McIver's football coach.

In the meantime Farragut's father, a colonel in the national guard, was coordinating search efforts with the Air Guard and the Coast Guard.

"It really got hairy," Mrs. Farragut said.

"The main thing was they needed airplanes. Boats just couldn't do the job."

Farragut had ordered a helicopter and organized volunteers who were ready to go out when word came that the boys had been rescued by a Louisiana Coast Guard helicopter.

Farragut, Peranich and Swartzendruber spent the night huddled up against the marsh cane under the pirogue.

They didn't sleep, either.

Farragut said he "daydreamed a lot."

"I lay down in the reeds in the mud and listened to the rain. I shook all night long."

Peranich said he didn't think he was going to make it.

"I thought to myself, David, how long can you last?"

"And I thought if I really had to, I could last about three more hours."

"All I remember was shaking and breathing, shaking and breathing," he said.

Farragut said he was too cold to be hungry.

But McIver said he got very hungry, and that he, Peranich and Farragut all ate three meals, each of steak and scalloped potatoes after they were taken to a hospital in New Orleans following their rescue.

John Schineller took his private plane, a Cessna Cardinal, out early Saturday morning to search for the young hunters.

McIver said he saw the Cessna, but couldn't signal it.

About 8 a.m. Saturday McIver saw a shrimpboat coming down the bayou.

He signaled the boat with what a piece of white styrofoam, probably from a cooler box top, he thinks.

"Someone on board waved back," he said, "and they signaled to the Coast Guard from there."

By that time McIver was barefooted. He had removed his shoes when they became so filled with ice they were too painful to wear.

"It was the happiest day of my life when I saw that Coast Guard helicopter," Farragut said.

"All my strength came back, and I was jumping up and down and hollering."

Swartzendruber, who was apparently more warmly dressed than the others, seemed to suffer no ill effects from the experience and left afterwards on a skiing trip.

Farragut said, "Kris kept saying Saturday morning he had to get home. I guess it was to go skiing."

The hunters got one duck on their memorable hunting trip.

McIver had got six on an earlier hunting trip that same morning.

"I'm never going duck-hunting again," Farragut said.

"I'll probably be out there again before the year's over," McIver announced.

"And I'll be right with him," his mother said.

Mrs. McIver undoubtedly spoke for parents of all four boys when she added, "This Christmas has been pretty bad, but I got the most important thing—I got my son back!"

Pull over to right for ambulance to pass

What do you do when you are driving and an ambulance or rescue unit is approaching?

State law requires drivers to pull over to the right and come to a complete stop, in order to allow any emergency vehicle to pass.

Where seconds would mean the difference between life and death, it is essential that emergency medical services personnel be allowed to reach their destination as quickly and safely as possible.

Consequences of drunk driving to be admitted as evidence in court Greater involvement by victims of drunk driving was predicted recently by Roy Thigpen, director of the Governor's Office of Criminal Justice Planning, as he spoke at the Mississippi Alcohol Safety Education Program's annual meeting in Jackson.

"Within the next 10 years," Thigpen said, "I believe that judges will be aided in understanding the impact of the crime via victim impact statements (VIS). These statements, I believe, will be written by the victims or survivors in the victims' families. When a judge looks only on the surface, it's not easy to understand the seriousness of drunk driving, but the VIS will give the judge facts such as a family being forced to apply for welfare because of a breadwinner being killed by a drunk driver or a person never being able to walk again because of an accident involving a drunk driver."

"It should be the responsibility of the prosecutor to obtain and submit VIS to the courts," he said, "and citizen activist groups will demand that this happen."

Thigpen also predicted that states "will get together and develop strategies to reduce drunk driving. I believe we'll be seeing a good drunk driver control system that will deter drunk driving across the nation."

"I also believe that we'll see the combining to some city and county police agencies to have one unit covering a city and county," he said. "I feel certain that more law enforcement agencies will work together in attacking drunk driving in a coordinated manner. It's likely that law enforcement officers from several states, and nationally, will be meeting to take a look at what's working and what's not working."

Thigpen predicted that more electronic law enforcement will be employed and that patrol cars will be equipped with computers to file reports.

Noting that "judges have been blamed for being lenient," he said that "I believe we'll see more judges who are professionally educated to understand the alcohol-related crash problem and who understand the role they play in protecting the public from repeat offenders. There likely will be more efficient case processing with punishment being swift, sure and certain. More judges will be requiring alcoholism assessments. The message will be that courts will not tolerate drunk driving."

"I envision that the Mississippi Alcohol Safety Education Program will screen first offenders," Thigpen said. "I believe that the public is going to encourage the new Lay Board of Education to adopt a philosophy and provide leadership for increased alcohol education in schools."

He said that he also believed that churches will be taking an active role in implementing programs to reduce alcohol and drug abuse. "The minister will be speaking more from the pulpit on this subject, and I believe seminars will provide training on this subject for prospective ministers."

"I also believe that community clubs will give greater priority to reducing drunk driving and that the news media will be an even more potent tool in getting drunk drivers off our highways," Thigpen said.

"In Mississippi, as well as in every other state of the nation," he said, "I think we'll be saying in a united voice that drunk driving no longer will be tolerated. Prevention will be the key, but those who persist in killing and injuring others via drunk driving will face more severe punishment than ever before."

Cancer Society offers help with New Year's vow to quit smoking

1. Don't carry a lighter or matches; hide all ashtrays.
2. When the urge to smoke hits, take a deep breath. Hold it for ten seconds, then release it slowly. Taking deep, rhythmic breaths is similar to smoking, only you'll inhale clean air, not poisonous gases.
3. Spend your day in places where smoking is prohibited — a library, theater, or museum. Lunch with friends also trying to quit at a restaurant with a "no smoking" section.
4. Eat rather than smoke, but stick to low caloric, high nutritional foods — fresh fruit, raisins, crisp, crunchy vegetables. Or substitute sugarless gum for a cigarette. Other "pacifiers" to try: lemon drops, cloves, beef jerky, apple slices, celery sticks, unbuttered popcorn.
5. Exercise to help relieve tension. Climb stairs rather than take the elevator, get off the bus a stop before your destination and walk the rest of the way.
6. Drink liquids — lots of them. Water, herbal teas, fruit juices, and certain soft drinks all fit the bill. Pass up coffee, soft drinks containing caffeine, and alcohol as they all can increase your urge to smoke.
7. Keep your hands occupied. Try doodling, knitting, working with a calculator (figure out the money you'll save by quitting cigarettes).
8. Change your habits connected with smoking. If you always had a cigarette on your office break, opt for a low-calorie snack and juice or tea instead.
9. Wrap your cigarettes in a sheet of paper, then rubberband. If you must reach for a cigarette, you'll have more difficulty getting to one and will be made aware of your action. Rewrap cigarettes afterward.
10. Tell all your friends that you are definitely quitting. Ask them to help keep you from backsliding. Ask family and co-workers who smoke not to do so around you.
11. Treat your body and soul with kindness. Indulge in a bath, massage, nap. Listen to your favorite music, take in a movie. Enjoying these activities in the absence of smoking will help you realize that you don't need a cigarette to have a good time.

Matters of Health

Smoking While Pregnant

I've just learned that I'm pregnant and I'm concerned about my smoking habit. Can smoking harm my unborn child?

Yes, it can. Smoking can affect a child before it is born, during infancy and childhood, and throughout life.

Women who are heavy smokers are more likely than nonsmokers to suffer complications during pregnancy. They are more likely to give birth prematurely, and their babies are apt to be smaller.

Babies born to mothers who smoke tend to weigh about a half a pound less than those born to nonsmoking mothers. This difference in weight may not be significant if a baby weighs between six and eight pounds, but it can be critical in a child of lower birth weight.

Early infant death — particularly in the first 28 days — is also more likely to occur among babies born to smokers. This can be caused by respiratory distress syndrome, or other difficulties.

Children of mothers who smoke during pregnancy lag in their physical growth and often have lower verbal and math scores. The more a mother smoked during pregnancy, the worse the deficiencies are.

How does smoke reach an unborn baby? Gases from the smoke enter the mother's blood and pass through the placenta or afterbirth directly into the baby's bloodstream. These harmful gases can affect blood vessels in the baby and placenta and reduce the amount of oxygen and nourishment carried to the baby.

A pregnant woman who smokes two packs of cigarettes a day may block off a significant amount of the oxygen supply to her baby.

What about just cutting down on smoking during pregnancy?

If you smoke less you may inhale more deeply to make up for it and end up getting just as much nicotine as before.

If a woman stops smoking by the fourth month of her pregnancy, her risk of delivering a low-weight baby is then similar to that of a nonsmoker.

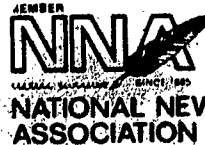

"National statistics show that nearly half the American pregnant women do not know how smoking affects the outcome of pregnancy," says Dr. Roland B. Robertson Jr., of Jackson.

Suggested New Year's resolution from Friendship Oak Chapter DAR

By Joe Pilet
Vice Regent

It has long been a custom of American people to observe as a national holiday the first day of January.

Holiday—a word derived from "holy day"—means to many a day free from labor, a day for rejoicing, a day to observe rites.

On Jan. 1 we fly our American flags, and we tend to make resolutions.

The Friendship Oak Chapter, National Society Daughters of the American Revolution would like to suggest a resolution for every American Citizen, regardless of age, sex, or color of skin: Let us become involved in better citizenship by promoting knowledge, loyalty and love of country and of home.

Such a resolution would require action! Do your bit for your community by refraining from littering, by being polite and courteous even under trying conditions.

Janus, the Roman mythologic god who guarded the portals and patrons of beginnings and endings, is the person for whom our January month was named. He is shown as having two faces, one in front and one in the back of his head. This is symbolic of power.

We can draw personal power from this symbol. Power to renew our patriotism and have faith in our country's future.

Looking back to July 30, 1868 the 44th Congress of the United States passed into public law our National Motto: "In God We Trust."

And looking forward let us not forget that our flag is a symbol of our freedom and our faith. During this New Year let us continue to pledge our allegiance, and rejoice in our privilege to live under the protection of our republic.

Allain inaugural committee listed

Governor-Elect Bill Allain Wednesday announced the appointment of members of his inauguration committee, who will oversee activities of the Jan. 10 ceremonies in Jackson.

Nicki Martinson of Jackson and John Calton of Natchez are serving as co-chairmen of the ceremonies, which will begin with the governor's swearing-in on the steps of the new Capitol.

The inauguration committee will also be responsible for an inaugural night event scheduled for the Mississippi

Coliseum, beginning at 8 p.m. Additional details of the event will be announced.

"Our inauguration will be a low-cost celebration, open to the public," Allain said. "The inauguration will include these two events, but will not include an inaugural ball or parade. We are depending on our friends and the inauguration committee to help us invite every Mississippian who wants to be with us for the festivities, as no invitations will be sent."

Allain announced the following committee members: Mrs. Jack Coopenbarger, Mendenhall; Mrs. Howard Brent, Greenville; Mrs. Allen Stewart, Jackson; Mrs. Stephen Krichmayr Jr., Jackson; Mrs. Walter Nixon, Ocean Springs; Mrs. Bill Watson, Poplarville; and Mayor John Leslie, Oxford.

Also, Col. Harry J. Stuart, Jackson; Mike Martinson, Jackson; Robert H. Harper, Gulfport; Mrs. Buddy Jenkins, Raymond; Mrs. J.C. Goolsby, Oxford; Hardin Wallace, Natchez; Mrs. Mamie Lee Mazique, Natchez; J.C. McDonald, Kosciusko; and Dr. London J. Thompson, Bolton.

ETV Brief

DR. WHO MOVIES

The "Doctor Who" movies starring Tom Baker will be telecast at 6:30 p.m., Saturdays, instead of 7 p.m., on the Mississippi ETV Network beginning with the movie on Jan. 7.

Also, the "Doctor Who" daily episodes starring Baker that are seen at 10:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, on Mississippi ETV will begin a new Monday-through-Thursday schedule effective the week of Jan. 16. The final Friday telecast will be Jan. 13.

However, there will be no weekly episodes of "Doctor Who" at all during the weeks of Jan. 30 and Feb. 6 due to special programming, this special programming does not affect the "Doctor Who" movies on Saturday evenings.

the garment was treated when purchased, it won't need respraying until after it has been washed or cleaned three to five times.

Soften your hands with lotion before pulling on stockings to cut down on snags. If a run does start, stop it before it gets too bad with clear nail polish, fraycheck, or a spot of glue.

Watch out for small tears, open seams, falling hems, loose buttons, and stains. If they are not attended to promptly, they will just get worse and sometimes ruin the garment completely.

Be sure to let underarm deodorants and antiperspirants, perfumes and lotions dry thoroughly before you get dressed. This will avoid staining garments.

Keep makeup off your clothes by placing a scarf over your head before pulling garments on or off.

Hang jackets or coats on padded hangers to keep shoulders nicely shaped.

Fold bias-cut dresses and skirts over the horizontal bar of a hanger to prevent stretching.

Make Garments Last

As soon as you take off a garment, empty pockets, close zippers, button buttons, and shake out wrinkles, then hang it up in a closet or fold it up and put it in a drawer.

Let clothes rest between wearings to give them a chance to regain their shape.

Don't dry clean your clothes to death! Even a good quality suit is made to survive only 20 to 30 cleanings. If you sent it to the cleaner every six or eight wearings, you will kill it off in two to five years.

Protect your clothes from dirt and stains with a fabric protector such as Scotchgard. Most fabrics can be sprayed but be sure to check the instructions on the can first. Apply fabric protector when garments are new and again after cleaning or washing. If

CHICKEN AND BROCCOLI CASSEROLE

2 boxes frozen chopped broccoli
6 to 8 chicken breast halves
1 stalk celery, cut in half
2 cans cream of chicken soup

1 cup mayonnaise
¼ teaspoon curry powder
¼ cup sherry
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ cup bread crumbs
½ cup grated cheddar

Conventional:

Cook broccoli according to package directions, drain. Steam chicken with celery in ½ cup water until done, discard celery, bone and skin chicken. Mix soup, mayonnaise, lemon juice, curry powder and sherry. Place chicken in baking dish, then place cooked broccoli over chicken. Pour soup mixture over broccoli and top with crumbs and cheese. Bake in preheated oven 350 degrees for 30 minutes or until heated through and browned.

Microwave:

Place unopened boxes of broccoli on end in microwave on plate. Microwave for 10 minutes, drain. Place chicken and celery in casserole. Add 2 tablespoons water, cover and microwave for 18 minutes on med. high or until done. Discard celery, bone and skin chicken. Layer chicken in casserole, top with cooked broccoli. Mix soup, mayonnaise, lemon juice, sherry and

Weight Off Wisely

If you have gained a few pounds over the holidays you would like to lose or would just like to start taking better care of yourself - join us on Wednesdays at 9 a.m., starting Jan. 11 for weight reduction classes. We will meet approximately two hours for 12 consecutive Wednesdays.

This is a behavior modification weight control program emphasizing re-education in proper diet and exercise and factors in our lives that relate to weight control. Each week we will have a group discussion, weigh-in, educational lesson and moderate toning-up exercise.

The series will be held at the Agriculture Building, 405 Nease Avenue, Bay St. Louis.

Landscape Maintenance

Classes will be held Tuesdays and Wednesdays, Jan. 10, 11, 17 and 18, 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., at the Agriculture Building Auditorium. John Davis, Area Horticulturist, and Lee Taylor, Hancock County Agent, will discuss house plants, turf grasses, insect and disease control on trees and shrubs, propagation, pruning, soil testing, fertilizers and their application. January is a wonderful time to get started on maintenance - before the summer heat and insect appears. The classes are free and interested individuals may attend.

Financial Planning

Did you know over 50% of all married women work outside the home? Dual wage earners often have different financial commitments than couples with a single wage earner. In January a 5-part newsletter will be available for those of you needing help with financial planning.

Parish News

By Fr. B.C. Keller
We begin the year with echoes of the Christmas feast as we worship the Savior born for us. He has touched both our hearts and lives. We praise Him in time and beyond.

Parishioners are invited to attend the annual Emancipation Proclamation Service to be held at 2:30 p.m. at the Little Providence Baptist Church in Catahoula. This service is sponsored by the Hancock County NAACP.

Parishioner support is still solicited for our candidate for Hancock County NAACP Mother of the Year, Mrs. Gerry Lang. Tickets for the annual Supper Theater slated for Jan. 14 may be purchased at $8 each from her.

Deadline is Jan. 7. Other donations may be made in her behalf, including renewal or new memberships. Today's second collection will be to support her. Deadline for all monies is Jan. 9.

Gospel Choir will practice on Tuesday at 6:30 p.m.; the Little People Choir, on Saturday at 10:30 a.m.

Next week's second collection will be for the retirement fund of the Divine Word Missionaries who have staffed St.

Rose parish since 1926. Please be generous!

Retired priests will greatly appreciate your expression of gratitude on their behalf, namely, Fathers Anthony Bourges, Lawrence Friedel, John Gasper, Clarence Howard, Joseph Kehrer, Maurice Rousseve and Clarence Weber.

Next Sunday at the 9 a.m. Mass we will have an installation ceremony for our newly elected parish council members. Next parish council meeting will be on Jan. 12.

Next Sunday after the 9 a.m. Mass religious instructions will be given for our 6th, 7th and 8th graders.

Jan. 15 will be the last chance to catch up on 1983 church envelope contributions. Annual report will be given the following weekend.

Mass Schedule

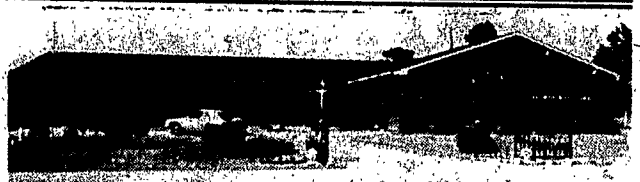

Sunday, 7 and 9 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Daily, Monday through Saturday, 6:30 a.m.

Saturday (Vigil) 6 p.m.

Mother of Perpetual Help Novena at beginning of Tuesday Mass.

Confessions are heard half-hour before weekend Masses and upon request.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

By Shawn Murphy

MINISTER, BAY ST. LOUIS CHURCH OF CHRIST

As we come upon a new year our thoughts become very time conscious. Many of the world's greatest thinkers have written on this timely topic.

Richter wrote, "Time is the chrysalis of eternity."

Cowley also had much to say about time. He wrote, "Time is lent us to be laid out in God's service, and we cannot be too diligent in it, if we consider that time is precious, short, passing, uncertain, irrevocable when gone, and that for which we must be accountable."

Later in his life he also wrote, "There is no saying shocks me so much as that which I hear so very often, 'that a man does not know how to pass his time.' It would have been but ill-spoken by Methuseleh in the 969th year of his life."

Chesterfield said, "Know the true value of time; snatch, seize, and enjoy every moment of it. No idleness; no laziness; no procrastination; never put off until tomorrow what you can do today."

Along a more humorous vein, Albert Einstein wrote this about the subject of time. "When you sit with a nice girl for two hours, you think it only a minute. But when you sit on a hot stove for a minute, you think it two hours. That's relativity."

Even some of the greatest Biblical characters also spoke about time.

Job speaking on the brevity of life said, "My days are swifter than a weaver's shuttle."

Solomon wrote, "For everything there is a season, and a time for every purpose under heaven."

Of judgment Jesus wrote,

"Therefore keep watch, because you do not know the day or the hour."

From all of these quotes we can see that time is indeed a very precious commodity, a subject that must be taken very seriously by us all. God has allotted us each a measure of time and we will certainly be judged concerning our use or abuse of that time.

As this is Jan. 1, 1984 perhaps it is an especially appropriate time to step back and take inventory of what we are doing with our lives. Are we storing up treasures in heaven or on earth? Are we serving mankind or ourselves? Is God pleased with my use of the time he has so generously given to me?

The custom of starting the new year with a clean slate, asking forgiveness for any slights or wrongs, and in turn forgiving others, has persisted down through the years in many lands — a time when people would greet each other on New Year's Day by saying, "If I have done you any wrong in the year just passed, please forgive me in the new." A very nice way to start the new year, don't you agree?

New Year's is a time of religious significance, one of the world's oldest festivals, a time to renew old friendships, to give thanks for past bounties, to look to the future — and, of course, to make all those New Year's resolutions! So we follow the old custom of visiting friends and family, or of entertaining them at home, as we make plans for the brand new year.

Our family follows the old Southern custom of eating blackeye peas on New Year's Day "for good luck in the New Year."

The popular Southern dish, combining the peas with rice, is thought to be of Spanish origin, and received its humorous name because it originated with the custom of having the children hop once around the table before the dish was served.

Our grandmothers took hours to prepare their Hopping John, and so do I most of the time.

However, you may prefer — instead of soaking the peas and cooking them the usual way — just to open a can of blackeye peas and season them up somewhat, serving peas and rice separately or together, according to your taste.

Or, if you prefer, drain the peas, then marinate in a seasoned vinegar and oil dressing, along with onion and celery slices, ham chunks, etc., adding lettuce chunks or serving on a bed of lettuce.

Some cooks prefer to drain and marinate the peas, then drain again and serve in a small bowl, so that callers may spear the peas with cocktail picks — everyone taking at least one for that good luck!

Some will take just a symbolic taste, others man-size portions.

However you serve your blackeye peas, you'll find that just about everyone joins in, hoping to stay on the sunny side of fate in the new year.

And, of course, New Year's is a time for toasts to "good health, good fortune all year."

The custom of proposing toasts goes back to early days of Greece and Rome, but the word "toast" came to popularity later on in England in the seventeenth century when a morsel of fire-toasted bread was put into the wine to accent and improve the flavor. Later, the custom languished, but the name remained.

Every country has its favorite toast and favorite libation — I'll leave you with my favorite of favorites, the old Irish toast: "May you be in Heaven half an hour before the devil knows you're dead."

Happy New Year!
